... Tribute ...

This year we would do honour to our Year Book by inscribing upon its first page the name of Winston Churchill. To him the symbolic torch, which left the western shore of the Dominion of Canada some weeks ago, is on its way; and to him—undaunted soldier and statesman, experienced, fearless and resolute—our thoughts and hopes turn in this time of vast and awful struggle, in which the strength of our Empire is enlisted, and on which the future of human civilization itself waits.

To Britain's great Prime Minister we place a humble tribute of admiration at the beginning of our record of 1940-41.

FACULTY AND STAFF

Foreword

The atmosphere of war still surrounds us as we again end the school year, and we find it hard to get away from it in our thoughts.

In these times we who are not in the active forces or in the front lines are apt to wonder what we can do. There is much that we can do by simply carrying on in the place we find ourselves and doing our work as well as we can, rather than to repine for some greater thing to do. We get restless in war time and any change seems attractive to us, but restlessness is a spirit to be resisted, and my message to you this year, if you cannot find direct war work to do, is just to carry on in the place where duty finds you, no matter how simple and unimportant may seem your job, for it is by the combined faithfulness of the British people in carrying on in their common and simple tasks that this war will be won.

In conclusion, I congratulate the Editor and her Committee on a successful issue of the Year Book, and wish to all the members of the school, both staff and students, a very happy vacation.

College Song

*Presented most affectionately by the Graduating Class of '25
to their Alma Mater*

---

Dear old Trafalgar
Hear thou our hymn of praise
Hearts full of love we raise
Proudly to thee.
Thy splendour never falls,
Truth dwells within thy walls,
Thy beauty still enthalls,
Dear O. L. C.

Through thee we honour
Truth, virtue, loveliness.
Thy friendships e'er possess
Our constancy.
Thy spirit fills us through
So we'll be ever true
To our dear Blue and Blue
Of O. L. C.

O! Alma Mater!
How can we from thee part?
Thou only hast our heart,
Dearest of schools!
Thy glory we shall see
Wherever we may be,
Still love of O. L. C.
Our future rules.

Senior Class Song

Beloved O.L.C.
Our comrade be
In thee we put our trust,
Ever in thee.

We Seniors shall remain,
Staunch, loyal, true,
Blessed in our every deed,
To our blue and blue.

Our love of college days
We shall cherish ever,
Friendships both old and new
Time can never sever.

Oh, Alma Mater
Soon we must part,
Your friendships constantly
Live in our hearts.

Trafalgar in our thoughts
Will always be
Firm loved and honoured yet,
Dear O.L.C.

After graduating from Balmy Beach public school Joan's parents, realizing the importance of a good training as well as an education, sent her to O.L.C., where she at first was into all sorts of mischief, but soon became popular with the teachers as well as students. Joan is particularly fond of sports. She has been an outstanding figure in the athletic life of the college for many years and for the past two has been the president of the A.A. A star player on both the basketball and archery teams, she also gained fame in the field day events and in the swimming meet by winning the senior championship of both. Another honour received this year was her Swimming Instructor's Certificate for Life Saving.

Next year Joan plans to continue her education at the University of Toronto. So now the time has come to bid farewell to her, from all of us at O.L.C. we wish good luck, good health and good fortune.

In the fall of '40 she honoured us with her presence and her bright and cheery smile has won her hosts of friends. When a German invasion threatened their native land the Skutezky family moved to Switzerland, then to England, where Louise learned to speak the English language. After a year in England they came to Canada and Louise entered O.L.C. Here she has been one of our keenest students. This year she was secretary of the S.C.M. and popularly voted one of the May Queen's councillors. ## The Senior Dance

Telephones and buzzers were ringing, telegrams and flowers pouring in, seniors making themselves beautiful and Juniors rushing around to lend a helping hand here and put a finishing touch there. Why? It was the 21st of February, the evening of that all-important event, the senior dance. The gym had been very effectively decorated by the art department as an Elizabethan hall with panelled walls. A large portrait of a gentleman of the period of Charles I hung behind the orchestra. At nine o'clock the seniors entered with their partners and the dance started, everyone being in the best of spirits. A 7-piece orchestra supplied the music and envious juniors were busy serving at the punch bowl, in main hall and the common room. All too soon the minutes sped by until the strains of the National Anthem brought one of the school's happiest events to an end. The seniors went sorrowfully to bed to dream of their Prince Charmings, and the juniors to make plans for "next year."

Senior Stunt

On April 4th, the seniors gave us their annual stunt. This year they not only presented one play, but two, of very different character, each enjoyed by all. "Friday Afternoon in a Village School" composed of the majority of the senior class, was the first to delight the audience. The title speaks for itself—and so did the pupils! "A Room in the Tower" depicted the life of Lady Jane Grey and her struggles with her cousin Mary. Four members of the class fascinated their listeners by displaying this. The plays were ably directed by Peggy McCallum and Betty Forman. The seniors have never let us down when it comes to a stunt, and this year's class did not fail to keep up the tradition. Their class song is hard to equal and remained on our lips for many days after.

Senior Dinner

After a week of planning, preparation and much hard work by every class with the exception of the seniors, we were at last ready for the Senior Dinner. The centre-piece of the senior table, attractively arranged by the juniors, represented a ship done in the senior colours, red, silver and blue. The favours were life boats and the place cards life savers, beside which was a coffee spoon in the traditional pine tree pattern, the gift of the juniors to the seniors. The dining room looked very attractive filled with girls with happy faces—with the exception of those who had speeches to make. After the toasts to the king, our country, alma mater, the faculty and staff, the graduating class, other classes, student organizations and the college press, the school formed a circle and sang Auld Lang Syne, the traditional closing for our senior dinner.

The Alumnae Tea

This year the Alumnae entertained the graduating class at O.L.C. The seniors enjoyed a delightful program given by its members, after which a dainty tea was served. The graduating class had a chance to become acquainted with the Alumnae and ask about the activity and locality of the Chapters, and we appreciated this opportunity and the trouble the Alumnae went to in preparing an enjoyable afternoon.

Baccalaureate Service

One of the most vivid pictures we hold in our hearts of Commencement Week has its origin on the last Sunday evening before we leave the school. In this picture we see the long line of students winding its way to church in honour of the seniors, the girls in cap and gown entering with bowed heads, the memorable sermon for them, and finally the walk home together with their entrance up Main Stairs singing "Saviour, again to Thy dear Name we raise,"—all this being part of a lovely tradition we hope will live on for those who follow.

This year on Sunday, June 8th, one of the longest lines in the school's history made its way to Whitby United Church for this service. The Juniors traditionally decorated the church for the service and ushered the Seniors in. The sermon was preached by Dr. W. C. Lockhart of Sherbourne Street United Church, Toronto, and we will long remember the profound message he left with us.

After this the Seniors entertained their friends in the Common Room and had the pleasure of meeting Dr. Lockhart and Mrs. Lockhart, whom they found to be even more charming than they anticipated.

Senior Breakfast

z-z-z-z "How many bells have gone?"

z-z-z-z "Oh my goodness—this is June 9th, and the day of our Senior breakfast—Roommate!

z-z-z-z "Senior breakfast! Well why didn't you say so—I'm up."

And so we set out—coffee, bacon, oranges, jam, bread, wood, rugs—and anything else we could carry—and tracked our way across the campus and down to the creek. Here we made two cosy fires and smoldered away the bacon and toast to our hearts' content. The sun came up to greet us and many a camera clicked the happy groups sitting around the fires. Ollie presented Miss Hill with a compact on behalf of the class, for her staunch support of our activities all year. After Peggy, Joan and Kay had "cooked things up" and everyone was in high spirits, we roamed around picking the buttercups and daisies 'till Barb and Ruth had a bouquet, and then started for home. We might mention we met some cows—as did the class of '40—on the way home, but we won't mention we ran, will we? And so ended the beginning of a perfect day!

Class Day Exercises

During the entire morning of Class Day the juniors could be seen picking daisies, making daisy chain or preparing a tea—all for the seniors, of course. In the afternoon the traditional daisy chain ceremony took place, while every junior groaned with dismay to see the precious chain hacked up. Then athletic awards were presented and the school withdrew, while a tea was given to the seniors by the juniors, which proved to be much less formal and more homey than the usual luncheon. In the evening Lower School presented the delightful "Birthday of the Infanta." The school then gathered around a bonfire while each senior threw the subject which had been her pet aversion into the flames with a poem dedicated to its conflagration. The dramatic society then presented a melodrama. And what a melodrama! We shall never forget booing the villain and cheering our brave hero and heroine—and the way they left their audience—gasping for breath we might say—from laughing. The highlights of the play, however, came when Smitty, in her most dramatic pose, was handed a copy of the play by Miss Hill, and when Yvonne crawled under the piano to get another copy. A few members of the faculty, notably Miss Goodfellow, Miss Holterman, Mrs. Levelton, Miss Acton and Miss Nixon, supplied some good old-time music, and Miss Jaques rendered a most touching solo. Thus one of the happiest evenings of our school year closed.

Senior Class Prophecy

Well, here I am, bus driver, back in Whitby. Guess I'll get out at the four corners and take a look around.

Say! Here comes a smart limousine, a blonde is getting out. Why! it's Betty Forman! Hi Betty! Hi Joan!

"I guess you and Jack are settled down in a snug little house of your own." "Oh yes, but not so snug, you see we decided we'd like something a little roomy, so Jack gave me Casa Loma for a birthday present."

"That's great, Betty, and how's Fran?" "Oh! she's in the Georgian Room along with Jean Pipher, cookin' up little cakes."

"Look! Here's Betty Reid and Ev McNiven coming out of the Red Cap." "Don't tell me they've been there all this time!" "Have you heard from Norma Williams?" "The last time I heard she was riding her horse across Canada and Audrey Woollings would have been here only she's snow-bound in a lumber camp up north."

"Someone said Vivian McConnell is lost in the south seas with Sterling Hayden.

Pecky and Donna are the star trapeze artists at the C.N.E. this year.

Peggy and Kay are polishing off the ice for a couple of hockey players. We can't imagine who they are.

I was up at school a few days ago. This year they have a large commercial class, so Betty Hull and Betty Cameron and Dibby are back teaching commercial, and they told me Ruth James is with the Met. Opera company (moving pianos).

Barb Stokes is teaching the La Conga on the liners from S. America.

You'd never recognize Willie now. She's found some new pills, with the result that she's 'fat lady' at the circus.

Bernie is still Lizzie Arden's best customer, with three permanents a week, but she believes in the old motto, try, try again.

Vi and Barb Turville are hula hula dancers at the Cotton Club.

Mary Liz is the home-loving type, that is, rocking the cradle, total capacity, five.

"Who's that in the middle of the street?" "Why, it's Dottie Hawkins—directing traffic at the four corners."

"Charlotte is finally realizing her ambition as hotel hostess at the Royal York.

I heard from Thompy the other day, and she's decided she wanted a little city life and excitement so she packed off to New York. She's staying at the Waldorf-Astoria." "Gee! that's quite an expensive abode!" "Oh! yes, but she's chief cook and bottle washer—(mostly bottle washer).

I saw some woman pitching hay the other day on a farm. I stopped to get the time and do you know it was Ollie Koleff! She was even standing pigeon-toed! She said Helen Yates was chief spider killer in Labatt's Brewery. She takes after her great grand-pappy, you know.

Louise has had a nervous breakdown from getting up too early to study for exams.

And Joan, I hear you are just back from Miami, where you've been teaching the tropical fish how to swim.

"That's right!"

Valedictory

At this time, in many places on this continent, schools and universities are marking the close of the year and the completion of courses of study by ceremonies such as these to-day. In the midst of a world of disorder and distress, these accustomed observances are proceeding in order and peace. We think of this circumstance with profound gratitude. Learning still keeps its place of quiet, though from its halls both young men and young women go out to take the part which learning has fitted them to take in the vast struggle which civilization is waging for survival.

If we were to search for a symbol which might embody our hopes as we leave the safe serenity of school and its accustomed tasks, we would find it in the torch which is being flown from the Western coast of Canada to England's great Prime Minister, Winston Churchill. The torch, in many lands, and through many ages, has been the symbol of Learning, Enlightenment, Justice, Freedom and Victory. It is to be found on the keystone in the East Bay in the Hall of Honour in the Scottish War Memorial.

It is characteristic of a torch in symbolic use that it is represented as being passed from hand to hand. It lights the path of him who carries it. It is timeless, it comes from strong and faithful hands in ancient days and it passes on to strong and faithful hands forever.

These are the things which we would remember to-day in leaving our school. Some who once worked in these classrooms are now serving as nurses and ambulance drivers overseas. Some in their English homes are literally on the front line in the battle of Britain. When we began our course here three, four, five years ago a happy and joyous path seemed to lie beyond the gates of school. Now there lies a world so beset and threatened we search our minds for the steadfast purpose, the firm courage, and the clear vision of victorious endurance which will make us worthy to bear and to hand on these great things of which a torch is the symbol, and our school a teacher and guardian.

Lower School

CLASS TEACHER	/	/	/	/	MISS RICKARD
PRESIDENT	/	/	/	/	JEAN KERNAGHAN
VICE-PRESIDENT	/	/	/	/	NATALIE WARD
SECRETARY-TREASURER	/	/	/	/	ELIZABETH STAVELY

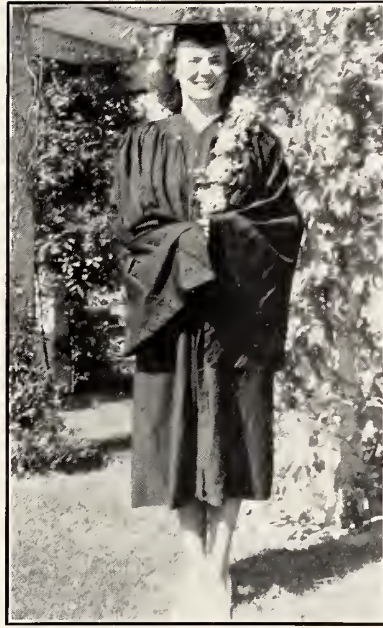

This year Lower School consisted of the Elementaries, Freshmen and Sophomores. The majority of these people being some of the English girls from St. Hilda's College, were our war guests this year. Most of the Lower School live on Ryerson—and keep things lively over there too! As their stunt they put on "The Infanta's Birthday," assisted by Miss Goodfellow, who played the piano. The costumes they wore were made by themselves and it was acted in the pergolas. We congratulate Lower School on its fine program. They have had an exceptionally active and interesting year, with some of their number represented in all the activities of the school life. Their colours this year were purple and mauve.

May Day

"Fair and warmer!" Never had a weather report been more welcome than this. Never had a day been lovelier than May Day. The brightness of the day made up for the rain last year. An address was given in the concert hall by Rev. A. E. Baker and the May Queen crowned by Mrs. Baker on the lawn, after the traditional grand march enacted by the school. This year Barbara Stokes was unanimously elected to this honour, and her councillors were Ruth James and Louise Skutezky. After the exercises on the lawn and the luncheon in her honour, the school went for our annual May Day picnic, where we waded, explored, played baseball and ate (and I do mean ate) to our hearts' content. In the evening the whole school went to the movies to sigh over Fred MacMurray and Sterling Hayden, and thus another happy May Day was brought to its close.

Strathcona Shield

This Shield was presented to the school by Lord Strathcona in 1907. It is made of copper taken from Nelson's flagship, the Victory. The possessor of this coveted award, elected by the student body, must have these three qualities—Womanliness, Athletic Ability and Intellectual Ability. She is warden of the Shield for one year, when her name appears on the front, and at the end of this time it is placed on the back with those of her predecessors. She also receives a pin on Commencement Day. The warden chosen by the school for this year is Helen Yates. After her election she was presented with a beautiful bouquet by our May Queen, Barbara Stokes, on behalf of the school, and a reception was held in her honour in the common room. Helen has proved herself worthy of this great honour, and we wish her every happiness for the future.

School Notes

The Choir

The life of the school would be quite incomplete without the services of the O.L.C. choir. At each chapel service and many times during the year it provides music which aids in blending the services together.

The choir first made its bow to society this year at the Parents' Reception, when they gave us their rendition of "Land of Hope and Glory" and "The Changing of the Guard." For the past two years they have undertaken to sing Handel's Messiah at the last chapel service before Christmas. This and the lovely carols they sing for the Christmas program do much to inspire the Christmas spirit in our hearts.

Shortly after Christmas the Choir presented an operetta, composed and directed by Miss Lohead, called "Merry England," to raise some money. A "kitchen orchestra" and a few other numbers completed the program. Our attempts were so successful we were able to buy an electric record player for the radio, and a few new records.

One could not write up the Choir's activities without mentioning the sleigh ride! On a cold, frosty, moon-lit night, two sleighs sped across the crispy, crunchy snow, piled high with laughing hearts and carefree minds. The choir was having a sleighing party. We shall not soon forget that night of fun and the delicious treat that awaited us on returning, when Dr. and Mrs. Carscallen invited us to the "Cottage" for soup and crackers, beside a warm crackling fire. Miss Lohead proved herself to be a good sport more than once when we had a social evening and theatre party.

To wind up a very successful year the Choir again delighted a large audience at Commencement exercises by singing "The Waltz of the Flowers" and "My True Love Hath My Heart."

We owe much to our leader, Miss Lohead, without whose capable direction we could not have attempted so many projects and we would like to thank her now for her unlimited help.

The Hallowe'en Program

The night marked the beginning of the important annual festivities. At every turn of the hall goblins, jack-o-lanterns, witches and black cats stood. The evening began when a most delicious dinner was served by candlelight, with the typical black and orange favours for the occasion. After this each girl made a "quick change" into some weird costume and entered in the grand march around the dining hall for the judges and guests to view. Mayor F. T. Rowe, of Whitby, acted as chairman, and the judges were Mrs. R. G. Grobb, Mrs. D. A. Wilson and Mr. C. A. Bryans. While the judges were making their decision, an interesting entertainment was given by Miss Lohead and Miss Mackenzie when they played the ever popular march "Pomp and Circumstance." Later a dance "Horses, Horses, Crazy Horses" caused much sensation when Miss Adams, Mrs. Hayes, Rosalie Holling and Betty Mackintosh cantered about in costume. The teachers surprised us with their interpretation of a zoo—especially Miss Taylor as a giraffe, Miss Carman as the lion trainer and Miss Kitchen as the bear,—not to mention Miss Jaques as the fat lady!

Last, but not least, the dramatic club presented "Flittermouse" and "The White Phantom"—need we say more?

The judges considered and reconsidered, and upon the third consideration the prizes were awarded the following—

Most beautiful—Anne Taylor.

Most original—Ann Fleming.

Most comical—Mary Hetherington.

Most comical group—Marjorie Hill, Monica McMullen, Ethelind Nunns and Patty Girven.

And so we ended one of the wildest, wierdest, witchiest, wondrous nights at O.L.C.

Parkwood

Mrs. R. S. McLaughlin, of Oshawa, extended her hospitality once again to the girls of O.L.C. last fall. On November 14, she graciously received the entire school into her home to view her chrysanthemums, which have won many prizes for their beauty and size. We were amazed to find not only chrysanthemums, but orchids, poinsettias and many other rare and beautiful varieties of flowers. After we had seen the flowers, tea was served, and our attention was drawn to the original painting "After the Bath" by Paul Peel, of which our hostess was the fortunate possessor. We all appreciated the trouble our hostess went to, to entertain such a large school and enjoyed ourselves immensely.

The Christmas Pageant

One of the most beautiful of the annual ceremonies of O.L.C., the Christmas Pageant, was held on December 18th. The program opened with the entry of guests, faculty, and school, to the carol "Angels We Have Heard on High." Following this came the Candlelighters Procession and then the Boar's Head Procession. During a delicious dinner prepared by Miss Crosthwaite and Miss Higgins and their staff, we were entertained by carols and dancing.

The school had a Christmas tree this year for the English girls. We all enjoyed the o-ohs and ah's that emerged from merry lips as they received many lovely gifts from the Alumnae, the Lions Club, Rotary and other friends.

After dinner the school withdrew and a Nativity Tableau was enacted on Main stairs. Finally the dramatic club presented a play "Why the Chimes Rang." A happy and contented audience left the concert hall after this with a smile on their lips and the Christmas spirit in their hearts.

Friday Evening Concerts

The Friday evening concerts have supplied many enjoyable hours to our school year, and this year proved no exception to the case. The first of these entertainments was given by the Cameo Trio, a group ever welcome at O.L.C., when they presented a varied program of song and music. On another occasion Mr. Madson with his folk dancing group delighted us informally in the gym in the colourful costumes of their country. Everyone from Miss Maxwell to Mary Lou Palmer took part in the dancing and a gala evening was enjoyed by all. We were pleased to have the Dolphinettes with us again. Their spectacular performance was a very welcome break in our Christmas examinations. Mr. Stuart Thompson gave us an illustrated lecture on birds and cleverly imitated their song. Miss Audrey Taylor presented an interesting lecture on Modern Art. We were very fortunate to have so many musical recitals this year. Gordon Hallett and Clifford Poole, a clever piano duo, presented a delightful concert in aid of the war savings stamps campaign and each student purchased two of these for admittance. On one evening the students of Mr. Atkinson and Mr. Slater played and sang. One of the artists, Marjorie Dawson, was a graduate of O.L.C., which made it more interesting. Miss June Wright sang beautifully for us on the night of the choir's operetta. Earle Spicer's singing of many familiar ballads and the brilliant playing of his accompanist passed another pleasant night at O.L.C. Tommy Arnold, another old student, gave us a delightful evening of monologues, assisted by Carl Bull, tenor.

Timothy Eaton Memorial Church

On April the 27th O.L.C. was again invited to attend the Sunday evening service at Timothy Eaton Memorial Church. Reverend David A. MacLennan gave an exceptionally inspiring sermon entitled "Rendezvous with Life." After the service the ladies of the church served tea and sandwiches, which we gratefully accepted, before our long journey home.

Junior Recital

The recital of our junior music and dramatic students was held on Friday evening, June 6. This was the first of the events of Commencement Week and was thoroughly enjoyed by all. Those taking part were Margaret Stavelly, Jean Kernaghan, Betty Ann Tolman, Eva Skutezky, Jill Sieveking, June Burgess, Vivian McConell, Betty Forman, Ethelind Nunns, Jean McIntyre, Ruth Smith, Peggy McCallum and Helen Craise.

Senior Recital

The senior recital held on Saturday, June 7, although short was not lacking in quality. The piano students taking part were Marion Buell, Jane Carol Renwick, Monica McMullen and Connie McKeen. Jane Carol also sang beautifully, and Evelyn Weese entertained us with a monologue. After the program a fashion show was held by the Household Science Department and refreshments were served. At the close of the evening Dr. Carscallen showed us the pictures of May Day, which we had been looking forward to with great expectation.

Alumnae Day

Alumnae Day is another of the days in the life of O.L.C. which is becoming a tradition. When the meetings of the Alumnae had been held, the alumnae and school attended a luncheon especially prepared by Miss Crossthwaite and her staff for the occasion. After toasts had been drunk to the King, our Alma Mater and the graduating class, the school withdrew to attend the theatre. Dr. Gordon Agnew addressed the Alumnae and Dr. Carscallen thanked the Niagara Chapter for the beautiful rug which they presented to the school, and the various other Chapters of the Alumnae on behalf of the school for the noble work they had done this year.

In the evening a delightful concert, prepared by Mr. Atkinson, was given, composed of a Child Trio and Miss Busbee, soprano. The group well deserved our undivided attention and we would like to thank Mr. Atkinson for his choice. It is not often we can have the opportunity of hearing such talented artists.

Faculty Notes

The students of O.L.C. would like to say here how very much they have enjoyed Mrs. Levelton, Miss Acton and Miss Holterman in this, their first year at the College. At the same time they wish to say how very sorry they are that Miss Taylor, Miss MacKenzie, Mrs. Hayes and Miss Goodfellow are leaving us. We extend our very best wishes for the happiness of Miss Adams, Miss Hendry and Miss Kitchen also, who are leaving us to enter into the bonds of matrimony.

Commercial Class

The Commercial class can boast this year of being the largest in many a moon. Its quality was increased by its quantity, and the members of the class may well be proud of their work this year. They took an active interest in sports and the organizations of the school.

The annual sleigh-ride was postponed this year—because of rain—but Miss Kitchen surprised us by substituting a Christmas party which compensated its loss. Dancing and singing in the gym—with refreshments of course!—composed the entertainment for the night.

Shortly after Christmas the Commercialss welcomed a new member of the faculty to their group when Miss Holterman came to O.L.C. to assist Miss Kitchen in her classes. It is with mixed emotions that we must say good-bye to Miss Kitchen this year—joy for her and sorrow at losing one of the best of teachers. We wish her the best of luck and happiness always. She will have left us, but the priceless work she has done at O.L.C.—both for the S.C.M. and the Commercialss—will live long in our hearts.

Ten graduates entered into the business world this year, and we wish them luck in their undertakings and hope next year will be as successful and interesting as this one proved to be.

Household Science Department

The Household Science Department found a new captain at the helm this year, and a much larger crew. We worked together and discovered new tricks to the old trade of cooking. Under the capable direction of Miss Acton, this department prepared the refreshments for the Parents' Reception as their first project of the year. Not long after that came the S.C.M. Bazaar, when we served tea in the Common Room to the guests and made honest to goodness candy apples to sell at the H.S. booth.

The Senior recital came with Commencement Week and with it the annual Fashion Show by the Household Science Department. The girls modelled their work of the year after the recital, and served refreshments to the school.

Seven of our number graduated from the department this year and expect to continue their studies in hospitals or carry on in a little nest of their own. We wish them success in their future attempts, and hope they will carry a bit of O.L.C. with them wherever they go.

The Art Department

The Art Department has co-operated with many other departments to make the social functions of the school year successful. The decorations at the Hallowe'en Masquerade were made by the senior students of the department and the elementaries. After studies of the primitive African sculpture, the seniors designed and made the grotesque figures for the niches of main hall. On the main stairway the three witches from Macbeth crouched over their weird cauldron in a setting of jungle skeletons. The elementaries made the paper sculpture masks and pumpkin faces for the dining room.

At the Bazaar the elementary art class produced two short puppet plays. The first puppets and scenery were made by the children in their regular classes.

The cover for the Christmas programme was designed by Vi Andress, her design being based on 'Why the Chimes Rang' which was the title of our Christmas play. The set for the play, the interior of a cathedral, was also made by the art students. designed by Ann Taylor, who made the stained glass windows. The triptych behind the altar was designed by Helen Burkholder and the altar frontal by Marion Holden.

The decorations for the Senior dance were made to a large extent by the Seniors under the direction of the department. The gym was decorated as the great hall of an English Tudor Manor house. The special features such as the great window, made by Vi Andress, the fireplace by Pat Lill and the plaque over the door, representing the coat of arms of O.L.C. and Trafalgar, lent much to the atmosphere of the time which the gym itself readily blended into.

In March the art department assisted in the production of "Little Women," the stage set was designed and made by Ann Taylor, the costumes by the Household Science Seniors.

In April the elementary class produced a marionette play "Peer Gynt" for Miss Goodfellow's music class. Having studied the music for "Peer Gynt" in class, they made large marionettes and worked out the story in pantomime with the accompaniment of the Grieg music.

Shortly after Easter the first and second form produced the trial scene from "The Merchant of Venice." The costumes were designed and made by the members of the second form, the scenery by the first form.

In the spring of 1940 the Junior Castle Chapter of the Alumnae presented the art department with twenty-five dollars, to be used in a project of interior decoration. With this Ann Taylor designed and redecorated the dramatic studio very attractively. We wish to thank the members of the alumnae for making this project possible.

On the evening of class day the elementaries presented a pantomime "The Birthday of the Infanta." This took place in the garden between the pergolas, where the poppies and irises made a delightful setting for the 14th century Spanish costumes. The story was a great favourite with the class and they greatly enjoyed studying the paintings of Velasquez and making their costumes. This made a delightful ending to a very busy and interesting year.

Trafalgar Castle

Trafalgar Castle, whose shadow has fallen benignly upon the history of our school since its most dim beginnings, possesses a personality of its own. To those who have been privileged to spend within its friendly walls a few of the happiest years of their girlhood it pervades every memory of that time. It is not merely the place where they went to school,—it is their school. That personality, however, is not merely academic. It reaches back to some of the most splendid things in Canadian history. It is a symbol of the conquest of a savage country by gracious and noble civilization. Its builder left an indelible stamp upon it of his own life and character and any history, however incomplete, which concerns itself with its work, must of necessity begin with his career.

Nelson Gilbert Reynolds, Esq., was born in Kingston in the year 1814, in the midst of the war then raging between the United States and Canada. Before he attained his twenty-first year he had served in the army both in England and as an officer of the 54th regiment on the Hudson Bay Service, he had been elected to parliament as member for the county of Hastings and had become a householder and the head of a family—rather a remarkable record in what we scornfully term the "slow days."

In the rebellion of 1837 he raised and commanded a troop of horse in the interests of the government, but his loyalty was suspected and he was forced to flee for his life across the border, after having been severely wounded in the struggle. He later surrendered himself and was tried for high treason, of which charge he was honourably acquitted.

During middle life he held many municipal offices, both in Belleville and later in Whitby, where in 1854 he was appointed Sheriff.

Trafalgar Castle was built by him as a private residence during the period 1858-61. . . . No elaborate description of the size and number of the rooms or lengthy lists of the enormous amounts of building material used can adequately describe the almost feudal dignity with which the castle stood out among the rambling homesteads and shops of the little town. It became the centre of the finest social life of the county. Many remarkable people came under its hospitable roof, among whom Prince

Arthur was perhaps the most distinguished. Upon this occasion there were festivities of all kinds but the great event for which Prince Arthur had graciously consented to be present was the laying of the first rail of the Whitby-Port Perry Railroad. With such high hopes and under such august patronage did the "Push" set out in life.

In 1874, however, the lovely house, then in the hey-day of its youth, passed into other hands, and upon that day its history as the home of the Reynolds family ceased and that of O.L.C. began.

Dramatic and interesting as its life had been heretofore, its sudden metamorphosis from a private house into a college had its elements scarcely less splendid. Its purchase did not only mark this change in the life of the building itself, but it represented a triumph for the fervid Protestantism of the little town and the inauguration of one of the first great educational institutions of the Methodist Church in Canada.

In writing this little sketch it has been necessary to delve back among old books and papers and records and calendars and such like for facts and tables concerning the history of the school. One of the most interesting glimpses of its very beginning was provided by a letter from a son of the late Reverend J. E. Sanderson, the Methodist Minister in Whitby at that time. He says:—

"I remember while sitting at dinner in the old Parsonage at Whitby a wire came for my father from Toronto saying that twenty thousand dollars must be secured before the opening of the Bank the next morning or the property would pass into the hands of the Grey Nuns. My father did not finish his dinner, but rushed off to raise the money."

The Reverend Mr. Sanderson, with Mr. James Holden and others, had been advocating the purchase of the Castle for the Methodist Church as an ideal spot for a girls' school for some time among the prominent churchmen of both the Town and of Toronto. It was their dearest wish to see such an institution established, and naturally when the property was in danger of falling into other hands, they were prepared to use every means in their power to prevent it.

This event crystallized the opinion of the group of men interested in the project into immediate action. The money was raised and a stock company formed who purchased the castle, organized a Board of Directors, with Mr. Holden, a resident of the town equally interested with Mr. Sanderson, as its first President, and the College was started upon the long road of its life.

The old books in which the records of those first meetings are kept are almost falling to pieces. Many of the men whose names are written therein are long since dead, yet despite the clerkly style in which the by-laws, motions and remarks are couched, to read them is to reach back into the past and touch the lives of their authors. One feels that this meant more to them than a mere business enterprise. To many it was a matter of great personal pride and interest. On September 3rd, 1874, according to the minutes, James Holden, President, and John Rice, Secretary, were authorized by the Board to present an address of welcome to Lord and Lady Dufferin, who came on that day to inspect the college before its formal opening. It was a great event in the life of the community. There were evergreen arches and brass bands, and so with good friends and good wishes O.L.C. began a life which has continued for fifty years in uninterrupted honour and good fortune.

Here and there in the grave dignity of the minutes appear in spite of themselves human touches concerning the life of the school which are both interesting and amusing. In one place sandwiched between some important motions Joshua Richardson is authorized by the Board to purchase a cow for the institution. They seem also to have had domestic troubles. They changed stewards about twice a year.

From its inauguration the staff of the school was headed by the Reverend J. J. Hare, assisted by his wife. For forty-one years their lives were one with the growth of the school and both left an indelible impress of their goodness and beauty of character upon its form and spirit.

In 1878 Dr. Egerton Ryerson laid the corner stone of Ryerson Hall, an addition at the West end of the building, and in 1887 an enclosed passage connected the original eastern wing with the cottage, the residence of Dr. and Mrs. Hare. Finally, in 1895, the eastern wing was completely transformed into what is now Frances Hall. The erection of this building was largely made possible by the generosity of Mrs. Lillian Frances Massey Treble, after whom it was called.

Perhaps the most important event until this Jubilee Year in the later history of the school occurred when Lord and Lady Aberdeen and their daughter, Lady Marjorie Gordon, established for us the lovely custom of the May Queen. Of all the happy days in the year this is the one which we remember most dearly. The 24th of May, the birthday of a good and noble woman, has become almost sacred in the eyes of O.L.C. people. All that is good and lovely in the life of our community is typified in the person of our May Queen. She is the symbol of the deepest desire of the heart of every girl to be a good, true woman. . . .

In 1876 there was one graduate, Miss Lillie Gray, M.E.L. This year there are thirty-two. Between the two extremes there stretches a long, long line of women who lived in the rooms that we now call ours, who loved the orchard in the spring and the white purity of the winter fields, upon whose lives the old house cast a spell which can never be removed.

There is an old feudal custom called "seizing" whereby the monarch delivered up to his barons the titles to the land he held in fief "to thee and thine heirs forever." The bond was a piece of turf cut from the land about to be given by ruler to subject. It was a double contract, for it bound the two together beneath an oath of eternal fealty. Whoever goes out from O.L.C. has taken "seizing" of their Alma Mater. Forever after, part of all that is good and noble belongs to her and in return she has laid upon them the sign of love and goodness which can never cease to influence their lives toward all that is lovely and true.

Editor's Note: The article above is reprinted in abbreviated form from an historical sketch of the school written for the Jubilee number of the Year Book, 1874-1924, by Nora Holden, now Mrs. L. H. A. Pilkington, a granddaughter of the first President of the Board of Directors, the late Mr. James Holden.

Of all the organizations of the school, this has the widest outlook, for through it we try to co-operate in the offices of worship, that universal instinct of mankind, and through it endeavour to aid humanity and alleviate some of its distress.

Each year we send financial aid to many societies, such as the Red Cross, the Star Santa Claus Fund and the Grenfell Labrador Mission, and it is only as a result of our chapel offerings that we are able to do this. Last year the Red Cross received $25.00, the S.C.M. Headquarters $25.00, the Labrador Mission $15.00, and the Sailors' Inland Mission $10.00. This year we have enjoyed using the new hymn books which were purchased jointly by the school and this organization. In addition to the above contributions $50.00 was given to the British Refugee Fund last summer.

This year the annual bazaar was a great success, having many booths representing the various classes and departments of the school. The S.C.M. paid a visit to the House of Refuge just before the Christmas vacation. Thanks to Dr. Carscallen, we had many enjoyable and intellectual chapel services.

Many of the fondest memories we carry from O.L.C. are bound up in the work of S.C.M., and so we can look back on an organization that has contributed a small part to the vast work of the World Student Christian Movement.

The Honour Club is a symbol of discipline, and has a great responsibility within the walls of our school. This organization, the most democratic form of school government, depends wholly upon the individual.

For twenty-three years the Honour Club has had an honourable history. It began at the close of the last great war, when the students felt more seriously than before their individual responsibility. May it continue in the future to grow stronger and more successful through the self-reliance and the co-operation of every student in the school.

This is the meaning and the vision in the motto of our organization:

"He conquers who conquers himself."

Athletic Association

"O.L.C. comes second in the archery tournament." That's the headline news for the fall term at O.L.C. O.L.C. might have been tops if Mr. Reynolds and his group had come a little sooner and given us those very helpful pointers and the superb exhibition of real archery. But Robin Hood's pastime isn't our only sport. What about lacrosse, those exciting inter-hall games in the chilly autumn,—or field day, on rather a nice day for a change? Any records broken? Well not quite, but we had a pretty good display of sportsmanship in running, jumping, javelin throwing and obstacle racing.

Winter is here already. So sports are taken to the gym. Hard practice for basketball? Oh, my yes! And any results? Well I should say so! Our first team upheld the school honour in a game against Hatfield Hall played on the home front, and in a very close game with St. Joseph's College School, in Toronto. The second team played well, but was not as successful as the first. However, winter sports weren't limited to the gym. We were skiing in Oshawa—up and down and around—loads of fun!

Spring and the swimming meet crept on us before we knew it. The meet was after Easter this year and was just as good as ever—striking formation, exciting races and close competition. But we mustn't forget badminton because the Athletic Association bought new badminton net standards for the gym this year. Quite an interest was taken in climbing the badminton ladder, which was a good sign.

Soon tennis was on its way and it proved hard to find an empty court to play. The A.A. also bought a new tennis net this year, which was badly needed. Both final games in singles and doubles showed keen sportsmanship and tennis playing. We even ride horseback at O.L.C. and often—or rather sometimes—see the tell-tale mud rather widely spread over the back of someone's breeches. The interest in riding this year was great and those who took it learned their "horse sense" to the "nth degree" under able direction.

One of the most important events in the history of the A.A. was the posture campaign. Remember those watchwords? That's it, remember them now and straighten up! We hope they will remind you to keep straight always.

Several of the girls received their Bronze life-saving medallions, some their Silver and a few their instructors' certificates. All in all 1941 has been a very successful year for the A.A., thanks to the co-operation of all the students.

Heintzman space saving pianos employ the same solid type of construction used only in pianos of larger size. In creating the new small models, Heintzman have also developed several basic improvements such as the acoustical bass bridge, tone louvres and direct blow action.

The result is a smartly styled, small, compact instrument that gives volume and clarity of tone, ability to hold tune, and a long, useful resonant life. These are the things you liked in the big family piano of yesterday. You will find them improved out of all recognition in the new space saving Heintzman, plus the charm, lightness and grace of design possible only in the small size piano of today.
